

Impress your teachers and friends! Make that college application shine! Become famous!

—Are a teenager (18 and under) that has completed a Summer Conservation Corps program for NYC?

—Write about your experience as a corps member and submit your essay or article to Teen Ink, a national magazine for teenagers like you!

What will publication of your experiences for NYC in a national magazine do for you?

- Lands you a prize
- Distinguishes your college application
- Makes a cool mention on a job application or resume
- Impresses your parents
- Helps you get the word out to teenagers about NYC

—Teen Ink has no deadlines for submission and they have several categories for submissions such as “Heroes”, the “Environment” and “Community Service”.

—Do you have a crew leader that you consider a ‘hero?’ Did NYC teach you about the environment? Did your community service building bridges, trails, restoring natural habitat, etc. positively impact your life or give you ideas and/or direction in life? If so, fame and a national audience await you!

—For more information about the submission guidelines of Teen Ink magazine or information about this opportunity in general:
